

Stephen Cumming Joins Kenandy, Inc. as Chief Financial Officer

Executive brings more than 20 years' experience to cloud ERP leader for global enterprises

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. – August 26, 2014 – Kenandy, Inc., the leader in cloud ERP for the global enterprise, announced today that Stephen Cumming has been appointed Chief Financial Officer. Cumming brings more than 20 years of global finance and operations experience to the role, and has a proven track record building successful finance organizations in rapidly-growing technology companies.

“Stephen is an outstanding addition to our executive team,” said Sandra Kurtzig, CEO and chairman of Kenandy. “With his deep experience managing finance organizations in global enterprises, he’ll help us build the infrastructure to drive operational excellence. He’ll also help us identify new opportunities as we continue to develop our platform for modern enterprises. Kenandy is on a rapid growth trajectory, so the timing of his appointment could not be better.”

Previously, Cumming served as CFO at Atmel Corporation, a worldwide leader in the design and manufacture of microcontrollers. He also served as vice president of business finance for Fairchild Semiconductor, where he was responsible for all business unit finance, corporate financial planning and analysis, manufacturing finance, and sales and marketing finance. He additionally served in roles at National Semiconductor.

“Most global enterprises are realizing the value of moving their ERP systems to the cloud,” said Cumming. “It’s all about speed, and Kenandy Cloud ERP has the agility large companies need today to take advantage of new opportunities. No one else has an enterprise-ready system built native on the cloud. I’m excited about contributing to Kenandy’s ongoing success.”

Cumming received a BSc degree in business from the University of Surrey and is a UK Chartered Management Accountant.
